

PUGET SOUND VITAL SIGNS

INDICATOR NATURE-BASED WORK

This indicator tracks stated participation in occupations based in natural environments in the Puget Sound, such as commercial or charter fishing, farming, forestry, habitat restoration, or outdoor-recreation jobs.

Nature-based work

Does your work involve spending time in natural environments?

● No ● No response ● Yes

Percentage of respondents in 2022 who answered 'Yes' (orange) and 'No' (blue) to the question: Does your work involve spending time in natural environments?

Indicator Progress

Target Status

Target

No targets are currently set for this indicator.

Data Source

Oregon State University Human Dimensions Lab

Human Wellbeing Vital Signs Survey 2022 Summary Report

Indicator Lead

Kelly Biedenweg
Kelly.Biedenweg@oregonstate.edu
Oregon State University

Last Updated

08/08/2023

Key Vital Sign Indicator Results

- Nearly 14 percent of respondents said their work involved time outdoors.
- Of those, 50 percent worked more than 10 hours per week outdoors. See Interpretation of Results for more information.
- There were no significant differences in time spent working outdoors since 2018.

CONTRIBUTING PARTNERS

TO LEARN MORE ABOUT THE VITAL SIGNS VISIT: vitalsigns.pugetsoundinfo.wa.gov OR CONTACT: vitalsigns@psp.wa.gov